The financial statements are prepared and presented in full compliance with the regulations of each standard, the guidance circulars, and the applicable accounting regime currently in use.

Going Concern Basis

The company's financial statements are prepared on the going concern basis, assuming that the company will continue its operations in the foreseeable future.

3. FINANCIAL YEAR AND CURRENCY UNIT USED IN ACCOUNTING

The company's financial year starts on 01 January and ends on 31 December.

The currency used in accounting records is the Vietnamese Dong (VND).

INTERIM FINANCIAL STATEMENT NOTES

Form B09A-DN

Quarter I 2025

4. APPLIED ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounting policies applied in the preparation of these financial statements are consistent with the accounting policies used in preparing the financial statements for the financial year ending on December 31, 2024.

4.1. Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements for the financial year ending on December 31, 2023 in conformity with Vietnamese Accounting Standards, accounting regime for enterprises and legal regulations relating to financial reporting requires The Board of Directors to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the financial year. Although these accounting estimates are based on The Board of Directors's best knowledge, actual results may differ from those estimates.

4.2. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash includes cash on hand and cash in bank accounts.

4.3. Financial Investments

Financial investments are accounted for using the cost method. The company only recognizes income from investments in the income statement when dividends are received from the accumulated retained earnings of the investee after the investment date. Other amounts the company receives, apart from the dividends, are considered as repayments of the investment and are recorded as reductions to the cost of the investment.

Financial investments at the reporting date, if:

- (i) The maturity or repayment term is no more than 90 days from the purchase date, are considered "cash equivalents";
- (ii) The repayment term is less than 1 year or within 1 business cycle, they are classified as current assets;
- (iii) the repayment term is more than 1 year or beyond 1 business cycle, they are classified as non-current assets (long-term financial investments).

Held-to-Maturity Investments

Held-to-maturity investments include investments that the company intends and is able to hold until maturity. The company's held-to-maturity investments are: time deposits with banks with fixed terms.

INTERIM FINANCIAL STATEMENT NOTES

Form B09A-DN

Quarter I 2025

4.4. Receivables

Receivables are presented in the financial statements at the carrying value, which is the amount due from customers and other receivables, less the provision for doubtful debts. At the reporting date, if:

- Receivables with a repayment or settlement period of less than 1 year (or within one business cycle) are classified as current assets;
- Receivables with a repayment or settlement period of more than 1 year (or more than one business cycle) are classified as non-current assets;

The provision for doubtful debts reflects the estimated value of receivables that are expected to be uncollectible, based on outstanding receivables as of the end of the financial year.

4.5. Inventories

Inventories are recognized at the lower of cost and net realizable value.

The cost of inventories includes purchase costs, processing costs, and other directly related costs incurred to bring the inventory to its current location and condition for use.

The net realizable value of inventories is determined by estimated selling price less estimated costs to sell the inventories.

The company applies the perpetual inventory method to account for inventories, with their value determined as follows:

The value of inventories is determined using the weighted average cost method.

Provision for Inventory Write-downs is made in accordance with Circular No. 200/2014/TT-BTC dated December 22, 2014, of the Minister of Finance and Accounting Standard No. 02 on inventories.

4.6. Tangible fixed assets

The cost of tangible fixed assets includes the purchase price and directly related costs to bring the asset into a state of readiness for use. The cost of tangible fixed assets that are self-made or self-constructed includes construction costs, actual production costs incurred, as well as installation and testing costs. The costs of upgrading tangible fixed assets are capitalized and added to the asset's cost; maintenance and repair costs are expensed in the period incurred. When a tangible fixed asset is sold or disposed of, its cost and accumulated depreciation are written off, and any gain or loss arising from the disposal is recognized in the income statement.

Depreciation of tangible fixed assets is calculated using the straight-line method, applied to all assets at a rate calculated to allocate the cost over their estimated useful lives, in accordance with legal regulations..

Depreciation is calculated using the straight-line method. The estimated depreciation periods are as follows:

INTERIM FINANCIAL STATEMENT NOTES

Quarter I 2025

- Buildings and structures	05-50 years
- Machinery and equipment	03-15 years
- Vehicles	06-15 years
- Office equipment:	03-07 years

4.7. Prepaid Expenses

Prepaid expenses include tools and supplies, the value of assets that do not meet the criteria for being classified as fixed assets, major repairs of fixed assets, and other prepaid expenses. Prepaid expenses will be gradually allocated to production and business expenses over a reasonable period from the time they are incurred.

The calculation and allocation of long-term prepaid expenses to production and business expenses in each accounting period are based on the nature and extent of each type of expense, to select the appropriate allocation method and criteria. Prepaid expenses are allocated gradually to production and business expenses using the straight-line method over a period of no more than 3 years.

4.8. Payables

The balances of payables to suppliers, internal payables, other payables, and loans at the reporting date are classified and reflected in the financial statements as follows:

- Short-term debt if the repayment period is within 1 year (or within one business cycle).
- Long-term debt if the repayment period is more than 1 year (or beyond one business cycle).

4.9. Borrowings and finance lease liabilities

Borrowings are recognized at the amount the company receives under the borrowing agreement.;

4.10. Capitalization of Borrowing Costs

Borrowing costs are recognized as an expense in the period in which they are incurred, except for borrowing costs directly attributable to the construction or production of an asset under development, which are capitalized as part of the cost of that asset when the conditions specified in Vietnamese Accounting Standard No. 16 "Borrowing Costs" are met.

4.11. Owner's Equity

The principles for recognizing owner's contributions, share premium, convertible bond options, and other owner's equity are as follows:

Owner's investment is recognized at the actual amount contributed by the owner.

Recognition of Retained Earnings:

Retained earnings are the profit after tax of the business, after deducting (-) adjustments due to the retrospective application of changes in accounting policies and retrospective correction of material prior-period errors..

b) Revenue from service rendered

Revenue of a transaction involving the rendering of services is recognised when the outcome of such transactions can be measured reliably. Where a transaction involving the rendering of services is attributable to several periods, revenue is recognised in each period by reference to the percentage of completion of the transaction at the statement of financial position date of that period. The outcome of a transaction can be measured reliably when all four (4) following conditions are satisfied:

- The amount of revenue can be measured reliably.
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the Company.
- The percentage of completion of the transaction at the statement of financial position date can be measured reliably; and.
- The costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction can be measured reliably.

The portion of the service completed is determined using the method of assessing the work completed.

c) Financial income

Revenue arising from interest, royalties, dividends, profits, and other financial activities is recognized when both of the following conditions are met:

- There is reasonable assurance that the economic benefits from the transaction will be obtained;

Quarter I 2025

Form B09A-DN

- The revenue can be reliably measured.

Dividends and profits from shareholding are recognized when the company is entitled to receive the dividend or profit from the investment.

d) Revenue from construction contracts

The portion of work completed in a construction contract is used to determine the recognized revenue, which is calculated based on the evaluation of the work completed, as agreed between the investor and the contractor.

e) Other Income

This includes income from activities other than the aforementioned operating activities.

4.13. Revenue deductions

Revenue deductions include: trade discounts, sales reductions, and returned goods in the company's sales within the year.

4.14. Cost of goods sold

The cost of goods sold reflects the cost of products, goods, services, and the cost of construction products sold during the year, ensuring:

- Consistency between revenue and cost of goods sold;
- The principle of prudence, recognizing immediately any costs that exceed the normal levels of inventory

4.15. Financial expenses

Expenses recognized as financial expenses include:

- Costs or losses related to financial investments;
- Borrowing costs and loan-related expenses;
- Foreign exchange losses due to currency fluctuations in foreign currency transactions;
- Provisions for impairment of securities investments.

These items are recognized based on the total amounts incurred during the year, without offsetting against financial income.

4.16. Selling expenses and administrative expenses

Selling expenses reflect the actual costs incurred in the process of selling products, goods, and providing services, including costs for product promotion, product advertising, sales commissions, warranty costs for products and goods (excluding construction activities), storage costs, packaging, and transportation, etc...

INTERIM FINANCIAL STATEMENT NOTES

Form B09A-DN

Quarter I 2025

Administrative expenses reflect the general management costs of the company, including salaries for the management team, social insurance, health insurance, union fees, unemployment insurance for management employees, office materials, labor tools, depreciation of fixed assets used for management purposes, land rental, business license tax, provision for doubtful debts, outsourced services, and other cash expenses.

4.17. Taxation

Value Added Tax (VAT):

Revenue from construction activities and the sale of goods is subject to VAT at rates of 8% and 10%.

Corporate Income Tax (CIT):

Current corporate income tax expense is determined based on taxable income and the applicable CIT rate for the current year.

Deferred corporate income tax expense is determined based on temporary differences that are deductible, taxable temporary differences, and the applicable CIT rate.

Other Taxes:

Other taxes are recognized in accordance with the laws and regulations.

4.18. Financial Instruments

Initial Recognition

Financial Assets: At the initial recognition date, financial assets are recognized at cost, which includes the transaction costs directly related to acquiring the financial asset. The Company's financial assets include cash, cash equivalents, trade receivables, other receivables, deposits, financial investments, and derivative financial instruments.

Financial Liabilities: At the initial recognition date, financial liabilities are recognized at cost, which includes the transaction costs directly related to issuing the financial liability. The Company's financial liabilities include trade payables, other payables, accrued expenses, financial lease liabilities, borrowings, and derivative financial instruments.

Subsequent Measurement

Currently, there are no regulations regarding the revaluation of financial instruments after initial recognition.

4.19. Related Parties

The presentation of relationships with related parties and transactions between the company and related parties is carried out in accordance with Vietnamese Accounting Standard No. 26 "Information on Related Parties," which was issued and published under Decision No. 234/2003/QĐ-BTC on December 30, 2003, by the Minister of Finance, and Circular No. 161/2007/TT-BTC "Guiding the implementation of sixteen (16) Accounting Standards issued under Decision No. 149/2001/QĐ-BTC dated December 31, 2001, Decision No. 165/2002/QD-BTC dated December 31, 2002, and Decision No. 234/2003/QD-BTC dated December 30, 2003, by the Minister of Finance," specifically:

Related parties are considered related if one party has the ability to control or significantly influence the other in making decisions regarding financial policies and operations. Cases that are considered related parties include: businesses - such as parent companies, subsidiaries, and affiliated companies - individuals, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, who have control over the company or are controlled by the company, or jointly controlled with the company. Affiliated parties, individuals who directly or indirectly hold voting rights in the Company and have significant influence over the Company, key management personnel such as the CEO, executives of the Company, close family members of these individuals or related parties, or companies affiliated with these individuals are also considered related parties.

In considering the relationship with each related party, the substance of the relationship is emphasized rather than its legal form..

Details of transactions with related parties are disclosed in note 8.5.

The company bears the risks after using financial instruments:

- Market risk

- Credit risk

- Liquidity risk management

The leadership is generally responsible for establishing and monitoring the principles of financial risk management. The leadership sets policies to identify and analyze the risks the company faces, establishes risk control measures and appropriate risk limits, and monitors risks and the implementation of those limits. The risk management systems and policies are periodically reviewed to reflect changes in the market conditions and the company's operations.

Leadership reviews and agrees on the implementation of management policies for the following risks:

(i) Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of financial instruments will fluctuate due to changes in market prices. Market risk includes four types of risk: interest rate risk, currency risk, commodity price risk, and other price risks.

Interest Rate Risk

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate due to changes in market interest rates. The company's market risk primarily relates to cash, short-term deposits, and loans.

The company manages interest rate risk by analyzing the competitive environment in the market to secure advantageous interest rates for the company's purposes while staying within its risk management limits.

Foreign exchange risk

Foreign exchange risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of financial instruments will fluctuate due to changes in exchange rates. The company faces risks due to fluctuations in exchange rates that are directly linked to its business operations.

(ii) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that one party involved in a financial instrument or contract fails to fulfill its obligations, resulting in financial losses. The company may face credit risks from its business operations, as well as from its financial activities, including bank deposits, loans, and other financial instruments.

Trade receivables

The company regularly monitors the trade receivable that have not been collected. For large customers, the company assesses the decline in credit quality of each customer as of the reporting date. The company seeks to maintain tight control over outstanding receivables and assigns personnel to manage credit to minimize credit risk.

The company will set up provisions for impairment to reflect the estimated level of loss related to trade receivable, other receivables, and investments. The main component of the impairment provision is the specific loss related to the damage incurred for each customer.

Cash at bank

The company primarily maintains deposits at well-known banks in Vietnam. The credit risk of these deposits is managed by the company's treasury department according to the company's policy. The maximum credit risk of the company for these items on the balance sheet at the end of the financial year is the carrying amount as stated in Note 5.1. The company believes that the concentration of credit risk in bank deposits is low.

(iii) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the company will have difficulty fulfilling its financial obligations due to insufficient funds. The company's liquidity risk primarily arises from mismatched maturity dates of financial assets and liabilities.

The company mitigates liquidity risk by maintaining an adequate amount of cash and cash equivalents and bank loans at levels that the leadership deems sufficient to meet the company's operations and reduce risk from cash flow fluctuations.

The table below analyzes the financial assets and financial liabilities into relevant maturity groups based on the remaining period from the balance sheet date to the contractual maturity date. The amounts presented in the table are contractual cash flows, undiscounted. Presenting this information is necessary to understand the company's liquidity risk management, which is managed on the basis of liabilities and net assets.

The company believes that the risk concentration related to debt repayment is low. The company has the ability to settle its due debts from cash flows generated by business operations and cash collected from maturing financial assets.

iv) Fair value

The carrying amount is calculated as the original cost less provisions for short-term receivables, bank deposits, and accounts payable to vendors and other payables, which is approximately equal to their fair value.

(*) Regarding the determination of the fair value of these financial assets and liabilities for disclosure purposes according to the provisions of Article 28 of Circular 201/2009/TT-BTC dated November 6, 2009, issued by the Ministry of Finance, since there are no market-listed values for these financial assets and liabilities and due to the lack of guidance in Vietnamese Accounting Standards, the company has not determined the fair value of these financial assets and liabilities for disclosure purposes.

The fair value of financial assets and liabilities has not been formally assessed and determined as of March 31, 2025, and January 1, 2025. However, the Board of Directors assesses that the fair value of these financial assets and liabilities does not differ materially from their carrying amounts as of the financial year-end.
