- Finance income increased by VND 5,977.8 million, equivalent to an increase of 24%, primarily due to the expansion of lending activities and the return of interest income from prior years, which was subsequently reinvested through continued lending.
- Finance expense increased by 62.5 million VND, equivalent to an increase of 1278%, primarily due to foreign exchange losses arising from royalty payments remitted abroad.
- Selling expenses and Administration Expenses increased by 154.9 million VND, equivalent to an increase of 2%.
- Current corporate income tax expense increased by VND 1,186 million, equivalent to an increase of 27% mainly due to higher financial income, resulting in a corresponding increase in the effective tax rate.

Revenue is determined at the fair value of the amounts received or receivable after deducting trade discounts, sales rebates and sales returns. The following specific recognition criteria must also be met before revenue is recognised:

Revenue from sales of books and publications

The Company's revenue includes revenue from books, cultural products and Block calendars, revenue from house rental services, revenue from bank deposit interest and distributed dividends.

Sales revenue is recognized when all five (05) following conditions are simultaneously satisfied:

- The company has transferred to the buyer the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the products or goods;
- The company no longer holds the right to manage the goods as the owner of the goods or the right to control the goods;
- Revenue is determined relatively reliably;
- The Company will obtain economic benefits from the sale transaction; and
- identify costs associated with sales transactions.

Revenue from real estate rental

Revenue from a transaction involving the rendering of services is recognized when the outcome of that transaction can be measured reliably. In case the transaction of providing services involves many periods, revenue is recognized in the period according to the results of the work completed at the date of the Balance Sheet of that period. The result of the service provision transaction is determined when all four following conditions are satisfied:

- Revenue is determined relatively reliably;
- It is possible to obtain economic benefits from the transaction of providing that service;
- Determine the portion of work completed as of the Balance Sheet date; and
- Identify the costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction to provide that service.

Interest

Revenue is recognized when interest arises on an accrual basis (taking into account the income generated by the asset) unless interest recoverability is uncertain.

Dividends

Dividends are recognized as revenue when the Company's right to receive dividends as an investor is established.

15. Taxes

Current income tax

Income tax assets and paid income tax for the current and prior years are measured at the amount expected to be paid to (recovered from) the taxation authorities, based on tax rates and tax laws in force at the end of the accounting period.

Current income tax is recognised in the income statement, except when it relates to items recognised directly to Owners' equity, in which case current income tax is also recognised directly in Owners' equity.

A company offsets current income tax assets and current tax liabilities when it has a legally enforceable right to set off current income tax assets against current tax liabilities and when it intends to settle its current income tax assets and current tax liabilities on a net basis.

Deferred income tax

Deferred income tax is determined on temporary differences at the end of the accounting period between the tax base of assets and liabilities and their carrying amount for the purpose of preparing separate financial statements.

Deferred income tax liabilities are recognised for all taxable temporary differences, except:

- Deferred income tax liability arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor taxable profit (or loss);
- Taxable temporary differences associated with investments in subsidiaries, branches, associates and joint ventures when the timing of the reversal of the temporary differences can be controlled and it is probable that the temporary differences will not reverse in the foreseeable future.

Deferred income tax assets should be recognized for all deductible temporary differences, carry forward of unused tax losses and unused tax credits, to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profits will be available against which the deductible temporary differences, and the carry forward of unused tax losses and unused tax credits can be utilized, except:

- A deferred tax asset arises from the initial recognition of an asset or liability in a transaction that, at the time of the transaction, affects neither the accounting profit nor the taxable profit (or loss);
- All deductible temporary differences arising from investments in subsidiaries, branches, associates and joint ventures are deductible only to the extent that it is probable that the temporary differences will reverse in the foreseeable future and taxable profit will be available against which the temporary differences can be utilised.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets should be reviewed at the end of each accounting period and reduce the carrying amount of deferred tax assets to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available to allow the benefit of part or all of that deferred tax asset to be utilised. Previously unrecognised deferred corporate income tax assets are reviewed at the end of the accounting period and recognised when it is probable that sufficient taxable profit will be available against which the unrecognised deferred income tax assets can be utilised.

Deferred income tax assets and liabilities are measured at the tax rates that are expected to apply to the year when the asset is realized or the liability is settled, based on tax rates and tax laws that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the end of the accounting period.

Deferred income tax is recognised in the income statement, except when it relates to items recognised directly to Owners' equity, in which case Deferred income tax is also recognised directly in Owners' equity.

The Company offsets deferred income tax assets and deferred tax liabilities only if it has a legally enforceable right to set off current income tax assets against current income tax liabilities and the deferred income tax assets and deferred income tax liabilities relate to corporate income tax levied by the same tax authority:

- For the same taxable entity; or
- The Company intends to settle its current income tax liabilities and current income tax assets on a net basis or to realise the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously in each future period in which significant amounts of deferred income tax liabilities or deferred income tax assets are expected to be settled or realised.
