- Intelligent Transportation Systems, Digitalization, and Cybersecurity (ITS) : 280 Bilon

❖ Shareholder opinions:

Shareholder Trần Thái Dương raised the following question: In the CEO's presentation, the company's business was divided into four main areas. Could you please share with shareholders the market size, the company's market share, profit margin, growth potential, and capital requirements for each of these business areas?

→ Mr. Nguyễn Ngọc Trung, on behalf of the Presidium, responded as follows:

+ Software Outsourcing (ITO): We currently have contracts in the U.S., Australian, and Japanese markets. Revenue from this segment reached over VND 160 billion in the 2024 fiscal year, and as proposed in the AGM plan, it is expected to reach VND 190 billion in 2025.

In terms of market share, we are merely a grain of sand in the desert—this is an extremely large market, and we are only taking our first steps in it. The profit margin for this segment is around 15–20%.

+ Data Center Infrastructure (DTI): Currently, GLT is recognized as the leading company in Vietnam in the field of data center projects, with approximately 23 data centers of various sizes nationwide. In Vietnam, GLT holds about 35–45% market share in cooling systems, with the two largest projects implemented by GLT being the VNG and Viettel Hòa Lạc data centers.

We are currently the market leader, and there remains significant room for growth. However, if we do not make determined and continuous efforts to achieve new milestones, we risk losing our leading position in the upcoming competitive landscape. The profit margin for this segment is below 10%. The data center market in Vietnam is expected to boom and receive the strongest investment in the next two years

+ Electrical and Automation Systems (ECI): This has been a core area of ITD Group since its early days; however, revenue from this segment has not yet achieved strong performance. If executed well, the profit margin in the automation field can rival that of software outsourcing. Although our current revenue and market presence in this area remain modest, the growth potential is still substantial.

+ Intelligent Transportation Systems (ITS): The market extends beyond just expressways—it also includes bus rapid transit systems, railways, and urban transportation. The key challenge lies in how we utilize our limited resources: whether to focus deeply on a few selected solutions or to spread resources thinly across multiple areas. The profit margin in this segment is below 10%. Digitalization and Cybersecurity: Recently, the government has placed significant emphasis on this area. Alongside public communications, digital transformation is now being implemented in practice. If we fall behind, we risk losing market share

+ Regarding Capital Requirements: As presented, the company plans to raise capital in 2025 through share issuances, including a stock dividend distribution and a rights offering to existing shareholders. Based on the financial plan for 2025, along with projected revenue, profit, and current resources, this capital plan is considered sufficient. However, we are also ambitious—if the business plan progresses well and favorable opportunities arise, we may call for an extraordinary general meeting to seek approval for an additional share issuance, potentially to strategic investors. From the perspective of both the Board of Directors and management, if any additional issuance is carried out, we will prioritize selecting partners who can bring synergistic value to the company's growth

Shareholder Trần Thái Dương raised the following questions regarding the recovery of VETC receivables:

- (i) Do we have a specific roadmap for recovering this receivable? In which year do we expect to complete the recovery and reverse the provision for doubtful debts?
- (ii) Regarding the impact of the legal dispute with VETC: Given that VETC is a major player in the intelligent transportation infrastructure sector, will this dispute affect our business operations in the future?

→Mr. Nguyễn Ngọc Trung, on behalf of the Presidium, responded as follows: Regarding the recovery of receivables from VETC, an enforcement decision has already been issued, and we have recovered approximately VND 3 billion through several installments. Recently, we have engaged in negotiations with VETC; however, the outcomes have not yet met our expectations. Once there is an official result, we will disclose the information to shareholders in accordance with regulations. Currently, VETC has developed its own independent solution, so in the future, they will no longer need to purchase as much from ITD.

Shareholder Trần Thái Dương raised the following question: Regarding M&A activities, what are the criteria for selecting companies for mergers or acquisitions, and when will we focus on executing these M&A plans? Specifically, for ITD Global, could you please provide further details on the company's purpose and scope of operations, as well as the scale and ITD's ownership percentage in this company?

→Mr. Mai Hoài An, on behalf of the Presidium, responded as follows: With the current structure of the Board of Directors, each member brings strong expertise in one of the company's core business areas. Looking at ITD's historical performance chart, it has not shown much appeal over the years, and we have historically had very limited recurring revenue. In addition to serving on the Board, we are also major shareholders, and we recognize that without breakthrough changes, ITD will continue along the same path as in the past. Our objective is to focus on business areas that generate maintenance revenue and have a high level of recurring income. For ITD Global, our goal is to build a company with revenue in the trillions of VND. In markets such as the U.S., Japan, and the U.K., companies in this field generate significant revenue. Achieving 20–30% growth organically is extremely challenging, which is why M&A is necessary. Our M&A criteria are clear: we will only consider acquisitions in the four core business areas and will focus on companies that can contribute directly to our revenue and profit growth.

Shareholder Nguyễn Quang Nhật raised the following question: Given the high intellectual and technical requirements of the four strategic business areas, how does the Executive Board plan to develop the core human resources for these fields? What are the company's strategies for talent development, training, and recruitment?

→Mr. Nguyễn Ngọc Trung, on behalf of the Presidium, responded as follows: In the past, ITD had a very strong talent pool, with most personnel coming from top technical universities such as the University of Technology (Bách Khoa), due to the specific nature of our industry. However, in recent years, we have encountered various challenges, as reflected in our financial indicators—revenue, profit—as well as both objective and subjective factors that we are all aware of. We have only recently taken over the management of ITD, and one of the key issues discussed by the Board of Directors is how to rebuild and develop our workforce. We fully understand that human resources are vital to the survival and success of any organization—especially a technology company. In the short term, we are actively recruiting experienced engineers and specialists. We truly believe that human capital is the key to an organization's success.

- ✓ Shares offered to existing shareholders are not subject to transfer restrictions.
- ✓ Shares arising from re-offering of fractional or unsubscribed shares to outside investors will be subject to a one-year lock-up period from the completion date of the offering.
